

About RLTSOURCE, LLC

We at RLTSOURCE set out to pursue a lifestyle of balance and health for our family. We searched for natural products with the best ingredients that would contribute to our own health and well-being. As an overflow of our discoveries, we are now offering this to others who would also benefit from our research and experience. We have found excellent skincare products that we ourselves use and can personally testify to their quality and effectiveness. We maintain a commitment to products that not only have cosmetic benefits, but also contribute to our overall health. As such, we only offer paraben-free products in the Bethesda Springs Botanicals line.

We offer Solutions with Integrity to meet legitimate needs with outstanding service and personal attention.

Swiss Apple Stem Cell Serum dramatically reduces the appearance of wrinkles and fine lines within just 24 hours, promoting a younger and healthier looking complexion, restoring your skin's elasticity. This topical serum tightens and improves your skin's firmness, evens out skin tone and texture, reduces rough patches, provides a healthy glow, and revitalizes dull, aging skin.

PhytoCellTec™ Malus Domestica – the first plant stem cell to protect the skin stem cell.

PhytoCellTec™ Malus Domestica is a liposomal preparation of apple stem cells developed by a novel, patent pending plant cell culture technology. PhytoCellTec™ – a novel plant cell culture technology has been invented to cultivate dedifferentiated callus cells from a rare Swiss apple. These apple stem cells are rich in epigenetic factors and metabolites, assuring the longevity of skin cells. PhytoCellTec™ Malus Domestica has been shown to protect skin stem cells and delay the senescence of hair follicles. PhytoCellTec™ Malus Domestica provides a revolutionary anti-aging performance for real rejuvenation. Michelle Obama is a fan of Swiss Apple Stem Cell.

Matrixyl 3000 combines palmitoyl oligopeptide and palmitoyl tetrapeptide-7 not just because two active ingredients are better than one. According to the Sederma, a French ingredient developer, these two peptides produce a synergy when used together, i.e. the skin benefits of such combination are greater than what one would expect if each agent's effects were independent of each other. Here's a fictitious example of synergy to illustrate the point: Ingredient A causes a 10% improvement and ingredient B causes a 15% percent improvement whereas A+B combo causes a 60% improvement (as opposed to the expected 25% improvement).

According to Sederma, the synergy between palmitoyl oligopeptide and palmitoyl tetrapeptide-7 is dramatic. They reported a tissue culture study where Matrixyl 3000 increased the synthesis of skin matrix roughly 2.5-3.5 times. In particular, the synthesis of collagen type I increased by 258%, fibronectin – by 164% and hyaluronic acid – by 179%.

>Sederma also reported a small human study involving two groups of 24 volunteers where Matrixyl 3000 performed considerably better than placebo and somewhat better than "classic" Matrixyl, including the following beneficial effects after two (2) months of daily application:

- Reduction in main wrinkle depth (-15%) and volume (-18%)
- Reduction in roughness (-14%)
- Reduction in complexity (-16%), "lifting" parameter
- Decrease in the area occupied by deep wrinkles (>200 microns) (-44%), -37% decrease in density
- Increase in skin tone (+15%)
- 10% of the entire liquid formula is Matrixyl 3000 as a synergistic combination
